

POETRY

Published March 14, 2019

GESTALTAUTHOR

Alex Whelan

DOI

10.20411/pai.v4i1.283

I looked out thru my window at the bird in the tree
And as I looked at him, he looked at me
Then we both made off our separate ways
With no farewells or comeback days
And I wondered at this separation, why?
For in that moment gestalt, the bird, the tree, and I.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Dr. Alex Whelan is a retired chief medical scientist at St. James Hospital Dublin and part time lecturer in immunology Trinity College Dublin. His interests are in autoimmunity and with a focus on coeliac disease. He has published extensively on these topics.

FOOTNOTES

Submitted January 2, 2019 | Accepted February 27 | Published March 14, 2019

COPYRIGHT

Copyright © 2019 Pathogens and Immunity

This is an open-access article distributed under the terms of the Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License.